ANTIQUE GLITZ

ANTIQUE GLITZ
Rich in history, the old-world charm of Chinese antiques lives on as decorative glitz and glam.

while they remain as valuable reminders of the colourful tapestry of life in a bygone era, these artefacts lend themselves well in this collage of contemporary expression.

DOWN MEMORY LANE

Set against a terracotta-coloured background and framed with gently fading antique floor tiles, are some of Puxi's road names - present and past.

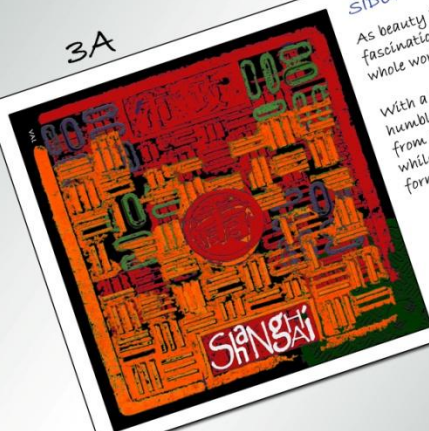

Softened with a beautiful white flower from a garden in the former French Concession, the collage harks back to the romantic days of 'old Shanghai'.

lours,

With a play on shapes and vivid colours, humble manhole covers are transformed from 'plain janes' into 'sidewalk sirens', while faintly resembling the traditional form of a "chinese chop".

PAVEMENT PASTELS

When in search of beauty in all things humble and plain, walking the pavements of Shanghai can be an inspiring experience when floral-shaped patterns borrowed from a manhole cover, dance around, dressed in pretty pastels.

Shanghai

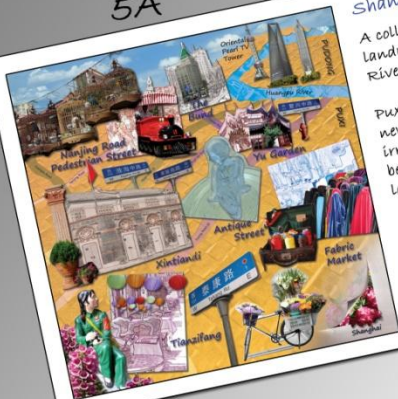

A collage of some of Shanghai's iconic landmarks on both sides of the Huangpu River.

Puxi is characterized by the old and the new, and colourful contrasts which make it irresistibly charming, while Pudong beckons with its futuristic skyline and looming glass towers.

CHINA BLUES

An outpouring of delicate flowers and silver butterflies from a pretty jar, lends a light-hearted touch to the otherwise traditional design elements of Chinese blue and white pottery.

Exuding an air of tranquility, it makes an elegant statement at any occasion.

NIHAO

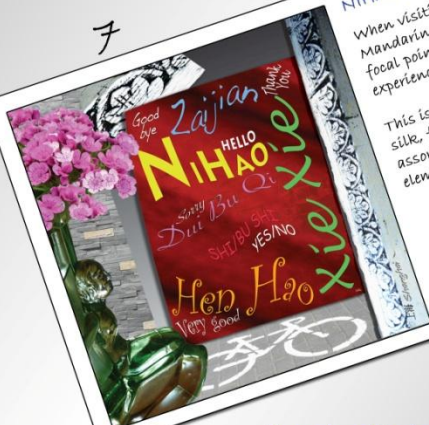

When visiting China, a knowledge of basic Mandarin goes a long way and remains the focal point of enriching the Chinese experience.

This is aptly represented by a touch of red silk, faint birdcage impressions, and an assortment of past and present design elements of fashionable Shanghai.

STREETS OF SHANGHAI

On the vibrant streets of Shanghai, stop to smell the roses or to admire the beauty of fast-fading artefacts of yester-year, like vintage Chinese calligraphy or granny's enamel bowl sitting pretty atop a child's forgotten rocking horse.

And from present day Shanghai, one has to notice the dual street signs that tell the taxi driver exactly where to let passengers off.
